

ABSTRACT

An odorless toilet which functions by drawing air from around the bowl through the original flush holes into a fan compartment. Malodorous air is then forced through an exhaust pipe into the sewage line downstream of the gas trap.